2. About Dean Ryle Asset Management, LLC (the Adviser)

Dean Ryle Asset Management, a Fee-Only Registered Investment Adviser (RIA), is a boutique investment manager with a focus on value investing in US-listed securities markets. They invest capital over the medium to long-term on behalf of institutional investors, financial advisers and individual investors located in the United States of America. Our clients are Qualified Clients and Accredited Investors.

The Adviser is a fundamental value-based investment manager that conducts detailed cash flow analysis of US-listed companies with a market capitalization greater than $1 billion dollars. Its investment philosophy is to purchase securities trading at a deep discount relative to other companies, subject to certain risk criteria.

The Adviser does not guarantee the performance of the Account or the return of capital or income. Your investment in the Account is subject to investment risk. This could involve delays in repayment and loss of income, or the principal invested.

As a Registered Investment Adviser, the Securities and Exchange Commission or any other agency has not sponsored, recommended or approved us, based upon our registration (under Section 208 of the Advisers Act).

For more information about the Adviser, refer to the website www.deanryle.com

3. Investment philosophy

The Adviser's investment philosophy is to focus on higher-quality companies, where quality is defined as having a competitive advantage and a degree of predictability of earnings. The Adviser also believes market sentiment can cause individual share prices to become dislocated from share value in the short to medium-term, and this provides a great opportunity for active Advisers to achieve better than market returns over the medium to long-term.

Capital preservation. The Adviser places a great deal of importance on assessing downside risk. They attempt to know as much about the portfolio companies as they can and believe that this will enable them to prevent permanent loss of capital. Risk comes from not properly understanding your investments.

Superior long-term compound growth. The Adviser aims to produce superior long-term compound growth over time by seeking out and investing in what they believe to be some of the best businesses in the world.

Great businesses purchased with a sufficient 'margin of safety' will provide superior long-term returns and great cash flows.

Diversification. The Adviser aims to be concentrated enough in the best ideas so as not to dilute overall returns but hold enough positions in order to provide an appropriate level of diversification. Concentrating capital in high-quality businesses builds wealth.

Value. The Adviser's strategy is to buy wonderful businesses for the long-term in an effort to maximize long-term returns. If a business performs well, the stock price will eventually follow.

Contrarian. The Adviser is often contrarian and will strive to be fearful when others are greedy and greedy when others are fearful. To have better performance than the crowd, they want to do things differently to the crowd.

4. Active Investment Process

The Adviser's general active investment management process:

1. The Adviser actively screen companies in the S&P 500 index looking for large-cap investment opportunities;
2. The Adviser assess the quality and risks of each company to determine whether it is eligible for investment.
3. The Adviser assess the intrinsic value of each company using valuation techniques including discounted normalized free cash flow to the firm (FCFF) and relative valuation techniques;
4. The Adviser maintain a register of companies that meet their criteria;
5. The Adviser construct a diversified portfolio based on their best ideas; and
6. The Adviser actively manage the portfolio in terms of quality, value, and risk.

5. Code of Ethics

The Adviser has adopted written policies and procedures, including Code of Ethics, Asset Adviser Professional Code of Conduct, and Standards of Professional Conduct. A copy of these is available to Clients and prospective Clients by emailing investor.relations@deanryle.com, visiting the Adviser's website outlined under "Ethics" or writing to the Adviser at:

6. Significant Risks

Market Risk. There is a possibility that investments in equity securities will lose value because of sudden declines in the stock market, regardless of how well the companies in which the Adviser invests perform. This risk also includes the risk that the stock price of one or more of the companies in the Account will fall or fail to increase. A company's stock performance can be adversely affected by many factors, including general financial market conditions and specific factors related to a particular company or industry.

Interest Rate Risk. The interest rate that moves markets is the federal funds rate. The federal funds rate is used by the Federal Reserve (the Fed) to attempt to control inflation. By increasing (decreasing) the federal funds rate, the Fed basically attempts to shrink (expand) the supply of money available for purchasing or doing things, thus making money more expensive to obtain. Money supply changes can affect the price of equity investments.

Value Investing Risk. The Adviser generally invests in companies after they have experienced or are expected by the market to soon experience a shortfall in security prices due to adverse business developments, management error, accounting scandal or other disruption, and before there is clear evidence of earnings recovery or business momentum. While investors are generally less willing to invest when companies lack earnings visibility or where the market price has decreased significantly, the Adviser's value investment approach seeks to capture the return that can be obtained by investing in a company before the market has confidence in its ability to achieve earnings recovery. However, this investment approach entails the risk that the companies included in the Adviser's investments are not able to deliver as the Adviser had expected when the Adviser originally invested in them, thereby reducing the performance of the Adviser's strategies. Disciplined adherence to a "value" investment mandate during such periods can result in significant underperformance relative to overall market indices and other managed investments that pursue growth style investments and/or flexible equity style mandates.

Portfolio Turnover. The Adviser has not placed any limit on the rate of portfolio turnover and portfolio securities may be sold without regard to the time they have been held in the opinion of the Adviser. A higher rate of portfolio turnover involves correspondingly greater expenses than a lower rate and may result in taxable costs for the Client depending on the tax provisions applicable to such Clients.

Investment Selection Risk. The Adviser may select investments in part based on information and data filed by the issuers of such securities with various government regulators or made directly available to the Adviser by the issuers of securities or through sources other than the issuers. Although the Adviser will evaluate all such information and data and seeks independent corroboration when the Adviser considers it appropriate and when it is reasonably available, the Adviser will not be in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness or accuracy of such information and data, and in some cases, complete and accurate information will not be readily available.

Concentration of Investments Risk. At times, if the Adviser invests up to the maximum permitted under its investment restrictions in the securities of single issuers and/or in economic sectors this concentration and lack of diversification relative to an investor's portfolio could mean that a loss in any one such position or a downturn in a sector in which the Adviser is invested could materially reduce a portfolio's performance. Thus, any substantial investment by the Adviser relative to overall assets in the securities of a single issuer or the concentration of the Adviser's investments in a particular industry may increase the level of risk.

Political Risk. Since the Adviser invests in U.S. markets, the companies that the Adviser invests in can have offshore affiliates and/or subsidiaries and may be affected by domestic and international political, social and economic conditions, any of which could negatively impact the Adviser's investment performance. There may be, for example, risk of nationalization, sequestration of assets, expropriation or confiscatory taxation, currency blockage or repatriation, changes in government policies or regulations, political, religious or social instability or diplomatic or political developments and changes. Any one or more of these factors could adversely affect the economies and markets of such countries that in turn could affect the value of the Adviser's investments in their respective markets. Additionally, the political stability of some of the countries in which the less developed securities and/or derivatives markets operate could be even more volatile from that of certain developed countries and such risks may be heightened.

Liquidity Risk. Illiquidity in certain markets during times of severe market dislocation could make it difficult to liquidate positions on favorable terms, thereby resulting in losses.

Inflation Risk. Inflationary risk refers to the risk that inflation will undermine the performance of an investment. Looking at results without taking into account inflation is the nominal return. The value a Client should worry about is the purchasing power, referred to as the real return.

Other Equity Risks. Investing in individual companies involves inherent risk. The major risks relate to the company's capitalization, quality of the company's management, quality and cost of the company's services, the company's ability to manage costs, efficiencies in the manufacturing or service delivery process, management of litigation risk, the company's ability to create shareholder value (i.e., increase the value of the company's stock price), geopolitical risk, financial transparency risk, and currency risk.

7. Appointment

The Client hereby appoints the Adviser as an Investment Adviser to manage such of the Client's assets as the Client shall from time to time assign to it, the proceeds from the sale of such assets, and the income attributable to such assets (the "Account"). The Client shall promptly notify the Adviser in writing of any increase or reduction in the amount of the Account's assets subject to the Adviser's investment direction.

By opening and maintaining an Account with the Adviser, you acknowledge that the Adviser does not solicit offers to buy or sell securities, or any other product or service, or offer investment advice, to any person in any jurisdiction where such offer, solicitation, purchase or sale would be unlawful under the laws of such jurisdiction.

Laws governing ownership of property vary from state to state. You understand and agree that you are responsible for understanding state laws applicable to any account ownership you have selected, including joint account or community property ownership, including, for example, with regard to the disposition of assets upon death, and ensuring that the ownership structure you have selected is valid in your state. You are responsible for consulting your legal or tax Adviser with regard to the impact on your Account from any state laws.

9. Authority of the Adviser

The Adviser is authorized to supervise and direct the investment and reinvestment of the assets in the Account, subject to such limitations as are contained in the 'Guidelines and Instructions' section described in this Agreement, as they may be from time to time amended, and subject to the Client's right to direct the investment of the Account by means of Instructions as described in this Agreement. The Adviser, as the Client's agent and attorney-in-fact with respect to the Account, when it deems appropriate and without prior consultation with the Client, may:

- a. buy, sell, exchange, convert and otherwise invest or trade in any stocks, bonds, options, units and other securities, including money market instruments, whether the issuer is organized in the United States or outside the United States, at such times and in such manner as the Adviser determines;
- b. place orders for the execution of such securities transactions with or through such brokers, dealers or issuers as the Adviser may select, which brokers or dealers are entitled to receive compensation out of the Account for their services;

- d. purchase, sell, exchange or convert foreign currency in the spot or forward markets as agent or principal, at the market rate, as determined by the Adviser in its sole discretion. Adviser, as the Client's agent and attorney-in-fact with respect to the Account, when it deems appropriate and without prior consultation with the Client, may engage external legal counsel to review trade-related documentation for bank loans and other over-the-counter instruments and charge the Account for such costs. The Adviser may give a copy of this Agreement to any broker, dealer or another party to a transaction, as evidence of its authority to act on the Account's behalf.

The Adviser is not authorized to accept delivery of cash or securities for the Account or to establish or maintain custodial arrangements for the Account. The Adviser will recommend a custodian (the "Custodian"), however, the Client may also choose a custodian to hold physical custody of the Account. The Client shall direct the Custodian to segregate the assets in the Account and to invest and reinvest them in accordance with the directions transmitted by the Adviser and received by the Custodian. Such directions shall be given in writing or given orally and confirmed in writing promptly thereafter. The Client shall not change the Custodian without giving the Adviser reasonable advance written notice of its intention to do so, together with the name and other relevant information with respect to the new Custodian. The Adviser shall not be liable for any act or omission of the Custodian.

10. Guidelines and Instructions

Attached hereto as Exhibit A and B is a statement of the investment objectives of the Client together with a statement of any and all specific investment restrictions applicable to the investment of the Account (the "Guidelines"). The Client shall have the right at all times to modify the Guidelines or to give the Adviser instructions ("Instructions") to buy, sell or retain any investment, but no modification of the Guidelines and no Instructions or modifications of Instructions shall be binding upon the Adviser unless the Adviser has received written notice of them from an Authorized Person as defined in this agreement. The Adviser shall have a reasonable period to bring the Account into compliance with any changes to the Guidelines. The Adviser shall be under no duty to make any investigation or inquiry as to any statement contained in any written Guidelines or Instruction given and, unless and until specifically advised otherwise, the Adviser may accept the same as conclusive evidence of the truth and accuracy of the statements contained therein. The Guidelines and all Instructions, unless they expressly provide otherwise, shall continue to be effective until duly canceled by subsequent modifications duly communicated to the Adviser in writing.

11. Fees and Costs

Management Fees

As compensation for its services under this Agreement, the Adviser shall be paid quarterly, in arrears, a fee equal to one-fourth of the annual rate of 21 basis points (0.21%), specified in "Key Features of the Investment", based on the asset value of the Account as of the last day of each calendar quarter in which the Stock Exchanges are open for trading (the "Valuation Date").

The initial billing period will begin when this Agreement is signed by the Client and accepted by the Adviser, and initial funding has been received by the Custodian (the "Inception Date"). The initial fee will be pro-rated to cover the period from the Inception Date through the Valuation Date for that calendar quarter and will be based on the valuation as of that Valuation Date.

If the Adviser shall serve for less than the whole of any quarter, its compensation shall be determined as provided above on the basis of the value of the assets in the Account as of the end of the date of termination and shall be payable on a pro-rata basis for the period of the quarter for which it served as the Adviser hereunder.

Example of annual fees and costs for the Account. This table below gives an example of how the fees and costs for the investment can affect your investment over a one (1) year period. You should use this table to compare this product with other managed investment products.

Example of fee or cost	Amount	Balance of $50,000 with a contribution of $5,000 during the year
Contribution fees	Nil	For every additional $5,000 you put in, you will be charged $0.
PLUS + Management costs	0.21% p.a., being management fee of 0.21% p.a. plus estimated performance fee of 0.00% p.a. ⁵	For every $50,000 you have in the Account you will be charged $105 each year comprising a management fee of $105 plus a performance fee of $0.
EQUALS = Cost of Account		If you had an investment of $50,000 at the beginning of the year and you put in an additional $5,000 during the year, you will be charged a fee of $105 ⁶ .

Performance Fees

The Adviser believes in performance-linked fees. The Adviser charges performance-based fees to Qualified Clients invested in actively managed Accounts.

Performance fees will be charged at a rate of 30% per annum, calculated as 30% x Outperformance capped at 2% of your Account value per annum.

Outperformance means total investment return minus S&P500 benchmark total return, or other appropriate benchmark, over the same period since the inception of the Account.

Outperformance means total investment return minus S&P500 benchmark total return, or other appropriate benchmark, over the same period since the inception of the Account.

Importantly, a performance fee is only paid when total returns of your Account exceed the high-water mark of the benchmark.

This fee is paid quarterly in arrears, then adjusted annually on to reflect the Adviser's performance over the full calendar year.

On a case-by-case basis, the Adviser determines an appropriate fee structure based on the size, complexity and investment objectives of the client's Account. There is limited negotiability of fees.

Fee arrangements may include a combination of a management fee and incentive fee or maybe solely limited to a management fee and/or an incentive-based fee. The terms and conditions of the fee structure are mutually agreed upon prior to entering into an advisory agreement.

Accounts of members of the same household may be aggregated for purposes of determining the management fee. The Adviser may allow such aggregation, for example, where the Adviser services Accounts on behalf of minor children of current clients, individual and joint Accounts for a spouse, and other types of ⁵ The example includes a performance fee estimate of 0.00% which is the actual performance fee amount for the Account for the previous financial year. However, the actual performance fee payable (if any) will depend on the performance of the Account and the performance fee estimate provided may not be a reliable indicator of future performance fees of the Account.

related Accounts. This consolidation practice is designed to allow clients the benefit of an increased asset total, which could potentially cause the Account(s) to be assessed a reduced fee based on the Adviser's fee schedule. Some employees and their family members may have Accounts that have a discounted fee.

Performance fee calculation worked for example. The worked example in the following table is shown only for the purpose of illustrating how the performance fee may be calculated and assumes there are no redemptions made during the year.

It is also important to note the below table is not an indication of the expected or future performance of the Account, and that actual performance may differ materially from that used in the following worked example.

Fee Components	Example Day 365
a. Performance fee rate	30%
b. Account value	$50,000
c. Account investment return	12%
d. Benchmark return S&P 500	10%
e. Out/Underperformance of benchmark	2%
f. Performance fee ($= a \times b \times e$)	\$300

Settlement of Fees

The client will be billed and automatically debited fees from the client's nominated bank account.

A client can direct the custodian to automatically charge the Advisory fees to be directly deducted from a client's account by the custodian and remitted to the Adviser provided that:

- the client provides the qualified custodian written authorization,
- a billing statement is sent to the client,
- the billing statement shows the amount of the fee, how it was calculated, and the value of the assets on which the bill is based, and
- the qualified custodian sends the client a statement, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from the account.

Other Fees

Other than the Adviser's fees, clients may pay other fees to a third-party financial adviser, or broker-dealer if one is consulted. You should contact your financial adviser or your broker-dealer for information on the fees that may be payable to them.

The Adviser uses a broker-dealer and custodian who may charge expenses like commissions, account keeping fees, and other fees directly linked to client Accounts.

In general, all fees paid for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged broker-dealers and custodians. Such fees and expenses are described by the broker-dealer or custodian on their website. Clients are advised to read these materials carefully before investing.

The Adviser will not charge clients:

- Establishment fees (fee to open your investment),
- Contribution fees (fee on each amount contributed to your investment),
- Withdrawal fees (fee on each amount you take out of your investment),
- Switching fee (fee for changing investment options) or
- Exit fees (fee to close your investment) by the Adviser.

12. Representations and Warranties

The Client hereby acknowledges, represents and warrants to, and agrees with the Adviser, as follows:

Client Assets. The Client is the sole owner of all assets in the Account and 1. there are no restrictions on the transfer, sale or public distribution of any such assets and 2. no option, lien, charge, security or encumbrance exists over such assets, except as disclosed to the Adviser in writing.

Authority. The Client has full authority and power to engage the Adviser under the terms and conditions of this Agreement, and such engagement does not violate the Client's constituent documents, any other material agreement, order or judgment of any court or governmental authority, or any law applicable to the Client. The Client further represents that all investments permitted herein are within its power to enter into and have been duly authorized.

Form ADV. The Client acknowledges receipt of Part 2A and 2B of Adviser's Form ADV. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, if the Client did not receive a copy of the Form ADV at least forty-eight (48) hours prior to execution of this Agreement, the Client shall have the right to terminate this Agreement without penalty within five (5) business days of the execution of this Agreement; provided, however, that the Client shall be at risk for any market fluctuations in the Account up to the time of such termination.

Authorized Persons. Any individual whose signature is affixed to this Agreement on the Client's behalf has full authority and power to execute this Agreement on the Client's behalf. The Client represents that the officer specified in the attached signature page is authorized to act for the Client and to certify to the Adviser from time to time, by listing on, and delivering to the Adviser, those other persons who also are so authorized to act on the Client's behalf ("Authorized Persons"). The Client shall promptly notify the Adviser in writing of any event that could reasonably be anticipated to affect any such individual's authority under this Agreement.

Notice of Certain Events. The Client will promptly notify the Adviser in writing of any occurrence that results or threatens to result, in any representations by the Client contained in this Agreement becoming inaccurate, false, misleading or incomplete.

13. Non-Exclusive Agreement

Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to limit or restrict Adviser's right, or the right of any of its officers, directors or employees, to engage in any other business or to devote time and attention to the management or other aspects of any business, whether of a similar or dissimilar nature, or to render investment Advisory services or services of any kind to any other corporation, firm, association or individual. The Client understands that the Adviser provides investment Advisory services to numerous other clients and accounts. The Client acknowledges that the Adviser's ability and that of its affiliates to effect or recommend transactions may be restricted by applicable regulatory requirements in the United States and elsewhere or its or their internal policies designed to comply with such requirements. Consequently, there may be periods when the Adviser may not initiate or recommend certain types of transactions in certain investments when the Adviser or its affiliates are performing services or when aggregated position limits have been reached, and the Client will not be advised of that fact.

14. Liability of Adviser

Except as may otherwise be provided by law, the Client specifically agrees that the Adviser shall not be liable for:

- a. any loss that the Client may suffer by reason of any investment decision made or other action taken or omitted in good faith and with that degree of care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims;
- b. any loss, expense or other liability (including but not limited to attorneys' fees) incurred by the Client or the Adviser arising from or in connection with the Adviser's compliance with the Guidelines or Instructions believed by the Adviser to be accurate;
- c. any act or failure to act by any broker or another person with whom the Adviser or the Client may deal in connection with the subject matter of this Agreement; or
- d. any loss or failure or delay in performance of any obligation under this Agreement arising out of or caused, directly or indirectly, by circumstances beyond Adviser's reasonable control, including, without limitation, acts of God, earthquakes, fires, floods, wars, terrorism, civil or military disturbances, sabotage, epidemics, riots, interruptions, loss or malfunctions of utility, computer software or hardware, transportation or communication service, accidents, labor disputes, acts of civil or military authority, governmental actions and inability to obtain labor, material, equipment or transportation.

15. Brokerage

Where the Adviser places orders, or directs the placement of orders, for the purchase or sale of portfolio securities for the Account, in selecting brokers or dealers to execute such orders, the Adviser is expressly authorized to consider, among other factors, the fact that a broker or dealer has furnished statistical, research or other information or services which enhance Adviser's investment research and portfolio management capability generally. It is further understood in accordance with Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, that the Adviser may negotiate with and assign to a broker a commission which may exceed the commission which another broker would have charged for effecting the transaction if the Adviser determines in good faith that the amount of commission charged was reasonable in relation to the value of brokerage and research services (as defined in Section 28(e)) provided by such broker, viewed in terms either of the Account or Adviser's overall responsibilities to Adviser's discretionary accounts.

Nothing herein shall preclude the aggregation or "bunching" of orders for the sale or purchase of portfolio securities in the Account with other accounts managed by the Adviser. With respect to the allocation of trades, the Adviser shall not favor any account over any other and purchase or sell orders executed contemporaneously shall be allocated in a manner it deems equitable among the accounts involved. In some cases, prevailing trading activity may cause the Adviser to receive various execution prices on the entire volume of any security sold for the accounts of its clients. In such cases, the Adviser may, but shall not be obligated to, average the various prices and charge or credit the Account with the average price, even though the effect of this aggregation of price may sometimes work to the disadvantage of the Account.

The Client understands and acknowledges that the Adviser or its affiliates may, based upon such factors as the Adviser deems to be important, such as Adviser's or its affiliates' respective trading strategies or their respective accounts' relative sizes or investment objectives or investment restrictions, restrict to certain accounts purchases and sales of securities acquired in initial public offerings, including those that trade or are expected to trade at a premium in the secondary market.

In no event shall the Adviser be obligated to effect or place an order for any transaction for the Client which the Adviser believes would violate any applicable state or federal law, rule, or regulation, or of the regulations of any regulatory or self-regulatory body to which the Adviser or any of its affiliates is subject to at the time of the proposed transaction.

16. Confidential Relationship

Each party agrees that all non-public confidential information concerning the other party which may become available to such party in connection with services, transactions or relationships contemplated in this Agreement shall at all times be treated in the strictest confidence and shall not be disclosed to third persons except as:

- a. maybe required by law or regulatory authority, including but not limited to any subpoena, administrative, regulatory or judicial demand or court order,
- b. as otherwise set forth in this Agreement, or
- c. upon the prior written approval of the other party to this Agreement. The Client authorizes the Adviser
 - i. to include the Client's name in a representative or sample client list prepared by Adviser, provided the Adviser shall not disclose Client contact information or any information about Client's holdings, and
 - ii. to use Adviser's investment experience with respect to the Account, or the Account's performance, in composite performance presentations, marketing materials, attribution analyses, statistical compilations, or other similar compilations or presentations, provided such use does not disclose the Client's identity except to the extent permitted by the Client.

17. Reports

The Adviser shall send to the Client a written report of the Account as of the Valuation Date of each calendar quarter. Such reports shall be submitted within a reasonable period following such Valuation Date. For the purposes of all reports made by the Adviser to the Client, foreign securities denominated in foreign currencies will be valued in United States dollars, unless otherwise agreed by the Adviser and the Client. The Client shall examine promptly each such report and any other report provided by the Adviser. To the extent permissible under applicable law, upon the expiration of the sixty (60) day period immediately following the date of such report, or the termination of this Agreement as provided herein, if earlier, the Adviser shall be forever released and discharged from all liability and accountability to anyone with respect to each such report, including, without limitation, all acts and omissions of the Adviser shown or reflected in each such report, except with respect to any acts or omissions as to which the Client shall have filed written objections with the Adviser within such sixty (60) day period. Nothing herein shall impair the right of the Adviser to a judicial settlement of any report rendered by it.

18. Valuation

In computing the asset value of the Account, if market quotations are readily available for securities listed on a securities exchanges, the Adviser shall value those securities at the last quoted sales price or the official closing price, on the Valuation Date.

The Adviser shall value over-the-counter securities within the range of the most recent bid and ask prices. If securities trade both in the over-the-counter market and on a stock exchange, the Adviser shall value them according to the broadest and most representative market as determined by the Adviser.

Any security for which a current market quotation cannot be established or a market event occurs that calls into question the reliability of current market quotations, or any other security or asset, shall be valued in a manner determined in good faith by the Adviser to reflect its fair market value.

19. Proxies and Other Legal Notices

Decisions on proxy voting will be made by the Client unless such decisions are expressly transferred to the Adviser. Adviser's obligation to vote proxies shall be contingent upon:

- a. receipt of proxies from the Custodian or the Client in a timely manner, and
- b. the lack of any legal encumbrance to voting, including any securities lending or similar program. The Adviser shall not be expected or required to take any action with respect to lawsuits involving securities presently or formerly held in the Account, or the issuers thereof. However, the Adviser will use commercially reasonable efforts to file proofs of claim on behalf of the Account in class-action lawsuits involving securities presently or formerly held in the Account and, in that regard, the Adviser may, without prior permission or consent, disclose information about the Account whether by including such information in any such proofs of claim or otherwise disclosing such information in any matter related thereto. The Adviser may, at any time, terminate this service of filing proofs of claim by giving notice of such termination to the Client, and such service shall, if not sooner terminated, automatically terminate upon the termination of this Agreement. The Client acknowledges that by filing a proof of claim on the Client's behalf, the Adviser may waive the Client's right to pursue separate litigation against the issuer with respect to the subject matter of the lawsuit.

The client also acknowledges that the Adviser or its affiliates may, from time to time, recommend litigation against an issuer (whether by opting out of any existing class action lawsuit or otherwise) on behalf of one or more of the registered investment companies or other pooled investment vehicles advised by the Adviser or its affiliates. In such cases, the Adviser will not provide the Client with notice of, or the opportunity to participate in, such litigation. The Client agrees to hold the Adviser harmless for not including the Account in any such litigation.

With respect to bankruptcies involving issuers of securities on behalf of one or more of the registered investment companies or other pooled investment vehicles advised by the Adviser or its affiliates, the Client also acknowledges that the Adviser may, in its sole discretion, participate in bankruptcy proceedings and join creditors' committees on behalf of one or more of the registered investment companies or other pooled investment vehicles advised by the Adviser or its affiliates. Unless otherwise agreed, the Adviser will not be expected or required to file proofs of claim with respect to securities held in the portfolio of the Client that may be the subject of bankruptcy proceedings. The Adviser will not be responsible for any failures to make such filings or, if the Adviser is acting under the authority granted to it, determines in its sole discretion to make such filings, for any failure to make such filings in a timely manner.

20. Acknowledgment of Investment Risk

Notwithstanding any provision herein to the contrary, the Client understands that the value of investments made for the Account may go down as well as up and is not guaranteed. The Client agrees that the Adviser has not made and is not making any guarantees, including without limitation a guarantee as to any specific level of performance of the Account. The Client further understands and acknowledges that investment decisions made on behalf of the Client's Account by the Adviser are subject to various market, currency, economic, and business risks as well as the risk that those investment decisions will not always be profitable.

The Client acknowledges that past performance results achieved by accounts supervised or managed by the Adviser are not indicative of the future performance of the Account.

The Client understands that securities, mutual funds, and other non-deposit investments are not deposits or other obligations of, or guaranteed by, the Adviser or any affiliate, are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") or any other government agency, and are subject to investment risk, including possible loss of principal amounts invested.

This Agreement may be terminated by either party upon thirty (30) days' written notice to the other party. Such termination will not, however, affect the liabilities or obligations of the parties under this Agreement arising from transactions initiated prior to such termination.

Upon any termination of this Agreement, the Adviser shall have no further obligations hereunder, provided that:

- a. any liability under this Agreement of one party to the other shall survive and remain in full force and effect, notwithstanding such termination, with respect to any claim or matter on which either of the parties has given the other written notice prior to such termination (except that the Adviser may render to the Client a statement of fees due the Adviser through the date of termination after such date), until such liability has been finally settled;

- b. the Adviser retains the right to complete any transactions open as of the termination date and to retain amounts in the Account sufficient to effect such completion; and
- c. the Adviser shall be entitled to its fees and expenses, pro-rated to the date of termination. Upon termination, it shall be the Client's exclusive responsibility to issue instructions in writing regarding any assets in the Account.

The Adviser must have reason to believe that the electronic delivery of required reports and other information, will result in good delivery to the Client. Examples of evidence of electronic delivery are email return receipt, confirmation of accessing or viewing the reports or documents.

Either party to this Agreement may, by written notice given at any time, designate a different address for the receipt of reports and other communications due hereunder.

26. Governing Law, Venue

The parties hereby consent to jurisdiction and venue in the Federal, and State courts in which the Client resides.

27. Entire Agreement, Modification

This Agreement:

- a. sets forth the entire understanding of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof;
- b. supersedes any and all previous agreements, understandings, and communications, oral or written, regarding this subject matter; and
- c. may not be modified, amended, or waived except by a specific written instrument duly executed by the party against whom such modification, amendment, or waiver is sought to be enforced. In the event of any conflict or inconsistency with this Agreement and any instructions or investment guidelines that are not made part of this Agreement or any investment policy statement, this Agreement will control.
